Location of residence

- Based on the path the census taker took, Samuel and his family were living along N. Main St. This corresponds with information found in the book titled Red Lion: The First One Hundred Years, which states that Samuel owned the brick 3 story building at what is now 41-45 N Main St. (listed as 59-63 below) and that it was built in 1876. A newspaper article from the York Gazette in the 1880's also mentioned that Samuel Sprenkle owned a brick building along N. Main St. and south of the railroad tracks. Finally, the 1885 Road Docket for the widening of N. Main St. shows Samuel owning property on the east side of N. Main St. that contains the brick building. Originally in 1876, only 41 N. Main St was built, the additional sections of the building were added later.

1908 Sanborn Fire Insurance Map of Red Lion. Samuel owned property in 1880 that contained the buildings located at 49 N. Main St. (now 33), 53 N. Main St. (now 35-37) and 59-63 N. Main St. (now 41-45). His home was the brick structure at what is listed as 59 N. Main St. (now 41 N. Main St.)

Occupation and Civic Involvement in Red Lion

- Samuel worked as a carpenter according to the 1880 census, various city directories later showed he was a phosphates and coal dealer, had a lumber yard and saw mill and lastly as a farmer. Samuel and Fannie lived most of their lives at what is now 258 East Broadway, although based on the route the census taker took in 1880 and the 1885 Road Docket for the widening of N. Main St., it appears they lived along N. Main St. in 1880.
- Annie and her husband lived at what later became 25 N. Main St and Annie worked as a cigar maker in her husband's business.
- Mary's husband Adam Shenberger died in 1898 and afterwards Mary lived with her parents in Red Lion. She worked as a cigar maker.

- Annie's husband George Gohn is also an original Red Lion resident from 1880, more information on his contributions to Red Lion will be listed under Jacob Gohn's family fact sheet.
